Just imagine a fantastic network of 275 diverse waterfalls extending over a three-kilometer area. People agree that Iguazu Falls are so beautiful that the risk is wanting to stay.

The falls are located on the Iguazu River and an area shared by Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay, so it is a three-country border zone.

You can travel to the city Foz do Iguacu on the Brazilian side, or the town Puerto Iguazu, on the Argentine side. Both cities have airports, bus stations and rental car agencies, so you can choose to go by plane, bus or car.

Iguazu National Park offers many activities to make your adventure unforgettable. You can experience the waterfalls in different ways; go on a trekking tour from the falls up to the impressive Garganta del Diablo; take a helicopter ride above the Iguazu Falls; rock climb the cliff face; go canoeing or kayaking in the Iguazu river; or camp in one of the camping sites - a convenient choice for backpackers traveling on shoestring budgets.

Also, the Iguazu National Park has one of the biggest biological diversity of South America. There are 2,000 plant species, 450 types of birds and more than 80 mammal species.

The falls are wonderful anytime with their sub-tropical climate and rains all year long. However, in winter there is less rain so the falls may be less powerful.

Fresh fruit is one of the key delights for travelers besides a variety of typical dishes such as feijoada (black beans stew), moqueca (seafood stew) and churrasco (mixed grilled meats), among many others.

The food at the open market is so good and cheap that tourists often decide to have all their meals there. We're sure you'll love it too.

We believe that our tourist plans suit a range of budgets. Iguazu offers 5 to 10-day excursions priced from $1,499 up. Apart from the local currencies, US Dollars and international credit cards are accepted too.

Travel experts consider that Iguazu Falls is a magnificent holiday destination for adventure and nature lovers!

Some tourists said, "I think Iguazu Falls is out of this world! We believe that these falls are a unique landmark!"
